Developments

December was a very difficult month for the financial markets, with the S&P 500 declining over 9%. Amid ongoing trade tensions with China, investor concerns centered around a possible slowdown in the economy and decelerating corporate earnings. Credit spreads widened, and oil continued to decline, with WTI Crude falling below $43 per barrel late in the month. The Federal Reserve raised rates late in the month, and failed to calm investor fears surrounding future policy actions. Risk aversion permeated all the financial markets, contributing to a 30 basis point decline on the 10-Yr U.S. Treasury, which finished the month at 2.69%. As a result, the Bloomberg Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index rose 1.84% during the month.

During this very difficult month, SSI's Flexible Allocation strategy performed as expected, declining significantly less than equities. Due to the strength in high quality bonds, the Strategy underperformed the 60/40 index² by approximately 20 basis points (gross of fee). SSI's Tactical Asset Allocation (TAA) model became more cautious on the prospects for the stock market early in the month, resulting in equity allocation below the benchmark throughout the month. Among the factors contributing to the model's less positive positioning are some of the global macro indicators and weakness in the credit markets. Late in the month, the TAA model became more positive as investor sentiment and mean reversion became extreme and credit markets stabilized. As always, we are monitoring all the key variables and are prepared to adjust equity investment levels in either direction, as more clarity develops around the current environment.

The Composite & Benchmark

SSI's Flexible Allocation Strategy (composite created May 1, 2009) invests in a portfolio primarily of Exchange Traded Funds but may include Exchange Traded Notes and other Mutual Funds. The exposure to various asset classes including, but not limited to, equity, fixed income and cash may range from 0-100%. The composite contains fully discretionary accounts including those no longer with the firm. SSI believes a performance comparison versus the Balanced Index is appropriate. Prior August 1st, 2015, the Balanced Index was 50% of the total return of the S&P 500 and 50% of the 90-Day Treasury Bill ("Balanced Index"). Subsequent to August 1st, 2015, the Balanced Index will be 60% of the total return of the S&P 500 and 40% of the Barclays Aggregate Bond Index. Portfolios in this composite may have asset allocations that are different from the allocation of the Balanced Index. These allocations may generally range from 60% equities & 40% Barclays Aggregate to 75% equities & 25% Barclays Aggregate. The volatility of this strategy may be greater than the Balanced Index due to changes in asset allocation. The return, if any, is dependent upon SSI's discretionary management. The Barclays Aggregate Bond Index is made up of government securities, mortgage-backed securities, asset-backed securities and corporate securities to simulate the universe of bonds in the market and the maturities of the bonds in the index are more than one year. Any other indices shown are not necessarily comparable to SSI's Flexible Allocation Strategy. These are widely recognized market indices that are shown for informational purposes only. Investors should be aware that individuals cannot invest directly in any index, and index performance does not include transaction costs or other fees, which will affect actual investment performance. The composite name was formally known as SSI Flexible Equity Strategy from 5/1/2009 – 4/30/2015 and on 5/1/2015 the new composite name became the SSI Flexible Allocation Strategy. Benchmark rebalancing frequency: monthly.

Investment Management Fees

Returns are presented gross and net of management fee. Actual results of an individual account may be materially different from the performance shown herein because of differences in inception date, transaction and related costs, restrictions, fees and other factors. All performance is based in U.S. dollars and reflect, on a percentage basis for each of the periods indicated: the actual net increase (decrease) of all SSI Flexible Equity Strategy portfolios, dollar-weighted, including adjustments for unrealized gains and losses, the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings, the deduction of some investment costs, the deduction of mutual fund costs, and are time-weighted to adjust for additions and withdrawals, and (b) the net increase (decrease) of the Balanced Index.

Net performance is reduced by SSI's actual investment management fees and model fees (2011-2012). 1% annual fee is used for any model fees. Gross performance does not include deduction of SSI's investment management fees.

If performance is gross of management fees, client's actual return will be reduced by the management fees and any other expenses which may be incurred in the management of an investment advisory account. See SSI's Form ADV, Part 2A for a complete description of the investment advisory fees customarily charged by SSI. As an example, an account with an initial $1,000,000 investment on January 1, 2003, earning a recurring 5% semi-annual gross return (10.25% annualized), and paying a .5% semi-annual management fee (1% annual fee) would have grown to $1,340,096 on a gross of fees basis and $1,300,392 on a net of fees basis by December 31, 2005 (3 years).
