Market Update

November was the second consecutive strong month for equities, as the S&P 500 rose 5.59%. The more favorable environment was driven by a weaker than expected CPI report and signals from the Fed that they would slow the pace of rate hikes. Interest rates moved lower, as the yield on 10-Year US Treasuries declined 44 basis points to 3.61%. After underperforming for most of the year, international stocks generated significantly larger gains than domestic. Within the convertible market, Utilities and Consumer Discretionary generated the largest gains, while Telecom and Industrials were the only sectors to post declines.

SSI's Convertible Income Strategy generated a gain of approximately 0.68% (gross of fee) / 0.60% (net of fee). The Strategy benefited from improving credit conditions and positive sentiment in the convertible market. The standstill yield continues to be attractive with many bonds trading below par and the short interest rebate rising as the Fed raises rates. Volatility among convertible issuers remains elevated and is a consistent source of profits for the strategy. New issuance during November improved to $3.3 Billion, which brings the year-to-date total to $24.7 Billion.

The Composite & Benchmark (Description & Material Risks)

The SSI Convertible Income Strategy (composite inception date January 1, 1995; composite created January 1, 1995) invests long in a diversified portfolio of convertible bonds/preferreds and short the underlying common stocks or call options to attempt to achieve an absolute return. The composite contains fully discretionary accounts including those no longer with the firm. With interest rebates on short sales and coupon interest on convertible bonds comprising a consistent and important component of the return of the SSI Convertible Income Strategy, SSI believes a performance comparison versus the FTSE 3 Month Treasury Bill ("3 Month T-Bill") is appropriate. The volatility of this strategy is expected to be greater than the volatility of the 3 Month Treasury Bill due to the inclusion of convertible and equity positions. The return, if any, above the 3 Month T-Bill is dependent upon higher interest income available in the convertible market and SSI's discretionary management. Any other indices shown are not necessarily comparable to SSI's Convertible Income Strategy. These are widely recognized market indices that are shown for informational purposes only. The composite name was formally known as SSI Hedged Convertible Income Strategy from 1/1/1995 – 6/30/2008 and on 7/1/2008 the new composite name became the SSI Convertible Income Strategy. Citigroup's 90 Day T-Bill was acquired by London Stock Exchange Group (LSEG) and beginning 8/1/2018 the new name is FTSE 3 Month Treasury Bill ("3 Month T-Bill").

Use of Leverage, Derivatives, and Shorts

Leverage is not used in SSI's Convertible Income Strategy and the use of derivatives is not material. The Strategy is generally fully hedged and involves buying a convertible bond/preferred and shorting the underlying common stock or call option in order to reduce the equity exposure.

Investment Management Fees

Returns are presented gross and/or net of management fee. Actual results of an individual account may be materially different from the performance shown herein because of differences in inception date, transaction and related costs, investment guideline restrictions, fees and other factors. All performance is based in U.S. dollars and reflect, on a percentage basis for each of the periods indicated: (a) the net increase (decrease) of all SSI Convertible Income Strategy portfolios, asset-weighted, including adjustments for unrealized gains and losses, the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings, the deduction of investment costs, the deduction of limited partnership and/or mutual fund costs (if any), time-weighted to adjust for additions and withdrawals, and (b) the net increase (decrease) of the 3 Month T-Bill.

Net performance for fee paying portfolios is reduced by SSI's actual investment management fees and non-fee paying portfolios are reduced by a 1% annual model fee (1995-2020). Model fees are deducted on a monthly basis. Gross performance does not include deduction of SSI's investment management fees.

If performance is gross of management fees, client's actual return will be reduced by the management fees and any other expenses which may be incurred in the management of an investment advisory account. See SSI's Form ADV, Part 2A for a complete description of the investment advisory fees customarily charged by SSI. As an example, an account with an initial $1,000,000 investment on January 1, 2022, earning a recurring 5% semi-annual gross return (10.25% annualized), and paying a .5% semi-annual management fee (1% annual fee) would have grown to $1,340,096 on a gross of fees basis and $1,300,392 on a net of fees basis by December 31, 2024 (3 years).
